

Cecil Corbin-Mark

Title Director of Programs

Organization WE ACT for Environmental Justice

First and current Director of Programs of WE ACT for Environmental Justice an organization dedicated to protecting environmental quality, improving environmental health and combatting environmental racism. A life-long resident of West Harlem Mr. Corbin-Mark, served as the president of his local block association and chaired a committee of the local community board. As a member of the WE ACT for Environmental Justice staff, Mr Corbin-Mark spearheaded the Harlem on the River project, which engaged community residents in developing a community-vision for the Harlem Piers area along the Hudson River. The Harlem Piers, a brownfield site in West Harlem, is now slated to become a new waterfront park as a result of the community-visioning process initiated by WE ACT for Environmental Justice. Mr. Corbin-Mark attended Hunter College in New York City and did his graduate work at Oxford University in the United Kingdom. He has served on the boards of a number of environmental justice, parks and planning organizations.
